3 次の文章は、アメリカに帰国した Mike が Hiroto に送ったEメールの内容である。

Dear Hiroto,

Thank you for helping me a lot during my stay in Japan. I enjoyed visiting various places with you. The Mountain Area was one of them. Walking across the bridge in the valley was especially exciting. I enjoyed visiting places that were rich in nature.

Since coming back to my country, I have read many books to learn more about Japan. There are a lot of beautiful places to see in your country. After I talked about that with my father, he made a plan for our family to visit Japan next spring. I was really surprised!

Next time, I want to visit many new places. My parents said Japan is famous for its traditional culture. And they want to enjoy it. What should we do in Japan? Do you have any ideas? If you do, please tell me about them. I'm looking forward to seeing you in Tokyo next spring.

Yours,

Mike

(* 印の付いている単語・語句には、本文のあとに〔注〕がある。)

Maya, Ken and Riko are first-year high school students in Tokyo. Bob is a high school student from the United States. They are the members of the art club and talking in the art room after school.

Maya: We have only one week to finish our pictures for the *exhibition.

Ken: I think that I can finish a nice picture. I've been painting almost every day.

Maya: How about you, Riko?

Riko: I think it'll be difficult to finish my picture.

Bob: Are you OK? You look tired. Did something happen?

Riko: I've almost finished my picture, but I don't know what to do next.

Maya: I know you've worked really hard, Riko. Don't be worried.

Ken: I can understand Riko's feeling. Just before finishing something, I always worry about it.

Riko: ⁽¹⁾ That's right. I hope many people will enjoy my picture in the exhibition. But I am not *confident about my way of painting now. And I have only one week before the exhibition.

Bob: I had a similar experience, Riko.

Riko: Please tell us about it, Bob.

Bob: I *participated in a Japanese speech contest when I was in my country. Just before the contest, I got very worried. I thought, "Can I speak Japanese well? Will people understand my Japanese?"

Riko: I see. What did you do then?

Bob: Before the contest, I went to see my uncle. He is very good at speaking Japanese. He works for a travel company, and he has visited Japan many times. He listened carefully to my speech and said, "Since last year, you have learned Japanese very well. Don't be afraid of using it."

Ken: Did that encourage you?

Bob: Yes, a lot. In the end, I made a good speech and got a prize in the contest.

Maya: That's wonderful.

Bob: ⁽²⁾ Thank you.

Ken: If you work hard, you will *succeed. You should be confident of that. That's very important.

Riko: Oh, why do you think so?

Ken: I was not good at running in my junior high school days, so I always got worried before running events. But after practicing very hard for a long time, I got better.

Maya: That is an important *lesson, Ken.

Ken: At a running event in my third year, I didn't get a prize, but I ran faster than before.
 I was happy about that. I realized that I could improve by practicing hard.
 (3)

Bob: Riko, I think you will be able to finish a nice picture.

Riko: Do you really think so? Will I?

Bob: Yes. You've painted a lot of pictures. I'm sure you can do it this time again.

Maya: Riko, do you remember? We painted a picture together for a school festival at our junior high school.

Riko: Of course.

Maya: Just before finishing the picture, I got very worried. I thought, "Will people enjoy our picture?"

Riko: I remember! Your feelings at that time were similar to mine now.

Maya: Right. And you said, "We've practiced painting for a long time. If we do our best, we'll finish a nice picture. Don't worry."
 (4)

Ken: That was good advice.

Maya: Now I'll give that advice to you, Riko.

Riko: Thank you. I understand each of you did well in difficult situations. I've *made a lot of effort, and I'm sure I can do it. I'm not worried now.

Bob: You mean you'll be able to finish your picture, right?

Riko: That's right.

Maya: I'm happy to hear that.
 (5)

Ken: Me, too. I think you should be confident.

Bob: I'm looking forward to seeing your picture in the exhibition.

Maya and Ken: Yes, we are, too!

Riko: Thank you very much, everyone.

次の文章を読んで、あとの各問に答えよ。

(*印の付いている単語・語句には、本文のあとに〔注〕がある。)

Nanami was a first-year high school student. One Friday in September, an *exchange student, Grace, came to her school from Canada, and she began to stay at Nanami's house.

That evening, Nanami held a welcome party for Grace with her family. Before the party, Nanami asked her, "Can you eat sushi?" Nanami knew that sushi was one of the most famous Japanese foods among people in other countries. Grace said she could eat it. Nanami did her best to make many kinds of sushi. At the party, Nanami said, "I hope that you like this. Please enjoy it." Grace ate some salad, French fries, and some vegetable sushi without *raw fish. But she ate only a little sushi with raw fish. Nanami was disappointed to see that. Nanami asked her, "How about the sushi with raw fish?" She said, "It's delicious." After the party, Nanami said, "I'm afraid you didn't eat much sushi with raw fish." Grace said, "I'm sorry about that." Grace looked sad. Nanami wanted to make her happy, so she said to her, "How about going to an amusement park tomorrow?" Grace said, "That's nice. I would like to do that." Nanami was happy to hear that. Nanami's mother came and said to Nanami, "I think Grace is tired. You and she should go to bed."

The next day, Nanami took Grace to an amusement park. They rode a roller coaster there. Nanami enjoyed it very much. But Grace didn't smile at all. When Nanami saw her face, she felt a little sad. On her way home, Nanami thought, "Am I the only one who enjoyed the amusement park?" That night, Nanami wondered in her bed, "How can I make her happy?"

On Thursday of the next week, Nanami wanted to talk with someone about Grace. She remembered her neighbor, Taiga. He was a second-year high school student at *the same school as Nanami. After school, she went to his classroom. He told Nanami about his experience of staying with a *host family in Australia. He said, "One of my host family members, John, took me to an aquarium because it was one of the most famous places in the city, and also it was his favorite place. I enjoyed watching sea animals there, but actually, I wanted to see koalas in a zoo. I didn't tell him that at the aquarium because he was so kind." And he said, "Maybe Grace felt like me." After Nanami heard about Taiga's experience, she decided to talk with Grace when she got home.

That night, Nanami said to Grace, "Grace, I'm really sorry that I couldn't help you enjoy your first week in Japan." Grace said, "Don't worry about that, Nanami. I'm sorry about the welcome party. I don't like raw fish. But I was *embarrassed to tell you that. At the amusement park, I was also embarrassed to tell you that I didn't like to ride roller coasters. Next time, let's talk and decide where to go together." Nanami said, "Thank you, Grace. Is there something you want to do this Sunday?" Grace said, "Sure. I would like to go shopping with you to buy souvenirs." Nanami said, "OK. There is a nice department store near the station. I often go there. Do you want to go with me?" Grace said, "Yes, I do." Nanami's mother was listening to them, and she smiled.

Three days later, they went to the department store. Nanami said, "Grace, what do you want to buy?" Grace said, "I want something that will help me remember Japan." Nanami said, "OK. How about buying two cups to use at home?" Grace said, "That's nice. Let's buy them. Nanami, I have another idea. I want to buy two small bags." Nanami said, "Why do you want two bags?" Grace said, "I want to use something which is the same as yours every day. I want to put my lunch box in a small bag and to bring it to school every day. I want you to do the same thing." Nanami said, "That's a good idea. I want to do that, too. Let's buy two bags." When they got back home, they showed the cups and the bags to Nanami's mother. She said, "You look like sisters." Nanami and Grace looked at each other and smiled. Nanami hoped that their *relationship would always be good.
